

27th November, 1924.

7379

Messrs. Bogle & Bogle,
609-616 Central Building,
Seattle, Wash.,

Dear Sirs:-

- Re: William Armstrong, deceased -

Referring to your letter of the 25th instant.

Enclosed herewith is the file. You will see from reading the evidence that an alarm clock and battery were found in the vicinity of the wreck, and the evidence of experts is that the damage or explosion could only have been caused by high explosives. An explosion of gas could not have produced the force that must have existed to produce the result.

I will be glad if you will return the file as soon as convenient.

Yours truly,

Enclo: